Müritz National Park. The Müritz National Park (322 km² total area) is located in the northeast of Germany, halfway between Berlin and Rostock.

With 117 km², the Müritz is northern Germany's largest lake, famous for its crystal-clear water and enchanting landscape. A 12 km long and 500 m wide strip on the eastern shore belongs to the national park.

There are over 100 lakes in the Müritz National Park that are larger than 1 ha. The larger sub-area (260 km²), bordering the Müritz to the east, is characterized by wide pine forests and large moors. In the smaller sub-area (62 km²) around Serrahn you can see remarkable old beech forests in a hilly landscape with many small lakes and moors. www.Nationalpark-service.de

SAW 10 means? Sergei Arapov Trail 10

Sergei Arapov?

The 19th Guards Fighter-Bomber Regiment, stationed in Lärz, maintained a large number of MiG-23 and MiG-27 fighter-bombers until it was relocated to Millorovo (Rostov-on-Don region in Russia) in 1993. Every day, fighter-bombers also took off as part of the duty system (DHS) with full armament. On May 14, 1982, a serious incident occurred at the air base, which could have ended in tragedy for the small town of Neu-Gaarz. On board was the young pilot Captain Sergei Viktorovich Arapov. Shortly after the take-off of his armed and fully fueled MiG-27 with the trunk registration "07", the turbine shut down due to engine problems. The pilot received the order from the flight control to eject with the ejection seat, but the MiG-27 was just over the village of Neu-Gaarz. The pilot's self-rescue with the ejection seat would probably have meant death for many residents of the small village of Neu-Gaarz. Sergei Viktorovich Arapov turned his unpowered fighter jet and crashed with it immediately behind Neu-Gaarz. Since then, a monument has been erected at the exit of Gaarz in the direction of Lärz in honour of this Russian pilot, who was only 30 years old and who sacrificed his life and thus saved the theirs of many German citizens.

Please report loss of keys immediately. We charge a contribution to expenses of € 100 here.
